

Hello Kids

Did you have fun decorating Noah's Mask?

God loved Noah and his family. God gave him many gifts so he could build the Arc and be able to take care of all animals until He found dry land.

This week you will learn about Moses as you decorate his mask.

Nancy Roy's Story

One day white-tailed eagles were boasting of their bravery. They were saying how fine they were in every way and that their names meant something splendid, free and strong. In fact the white-tailed eagles were less brave than any of the eagle families.

When General Raven heard they were boasting he decided it would be great sport to have those silly white-tailed eagles admit they were not brave. So he called all the ravens together, some of them were having their nap, but as soon as they were called they got up in great hurry and flew in drilling formation just like soldiers toward the eagles nest.

When they got there General Raven said, "Good Morning", he really didn't mean to be friendly. "Do you want to fight?" asked the General Raven.

No response just a slight fluster and trembling which the Ravens could hear. General Raven grinned with delight. He asked again "Do you want to fight us, eh?" The Eagles never said the word they were so frightened.

"Well," said the General Raven "we heard you talking before we came of your bravery. We decided not to fight you because you are afraid of us. We think you are very cowardly" and with a deep chuckle, off flew General Raven and his followers.

The eagles did not go on boasting and were very content that the ravens had gone away.

We should be careful not to think too much of ourselves or boast.
